Glo. Then be it ſo : and goe wee to determine who they ſhall be that ſtraight ſhall poſt to Ludlow?
Maddam and you my mother will you goe,
To giue your cenſures in this weighty buſineſſe.
Anſ. With all our hearts. Exeunt manet Glo. Buck.
Buc. My Lord, who euer Iourneyes to the Prince,
For Gods ſake let not vs two be behinde :
For by the way Ile ſort occaſion,
As index to the ſtory we lately talkt off,
To part the Queenes proud kindred from the King,
Glo. My other ſelfe, my counſels conſiſtory
My Oracle, my prophet, my deere Coſen:
I like a child will goe by thy direction :
Towards Ludlow then for we will not ſtay behinde. Exit.

Enter two Citizens.

1. Neighbour well met, whither away ſo faſt?
2. I promiſe you, I ſcarcely know my ſelfe.
1. Heare you the newes abroad?
2. I, that the King is dead.
1. Bat newes birlady, ſeldome comes better,
I feare, I feare twill prooue a troubleſome world. Enter ano-
3. Cit. Good morrow neighbours.
Doth this newes hould of good King Edwards death?
1. It doth. 3. Then maſters looke to ſee a troublous world.
1. No, no, by Gods grace his ſonne ſhall raigne.
3. Wo to that land thats gouernd by a childe.
2. In him there is hope of gouernment,
That in his ſonage, counſell vnder him,
And in his full ripened yeares, himſelfe,
No doubt ſhall then, and till then gouerne well.
1. So ſtood the caſe when Harry the ſixt
was crownd at Paris, but at nine moneths old.
3. Stood the ſtate ſo; no good my friend not ſo,
For then this land was famouſly inricht
With politicke graue counſell : then the King
Had vertuous Vncles to protect his Grace.
2. So hath this, both by the father and mother.
3. Better it were they all came by the father,
Or by the father there were none at all :

For emulation now, who ſhall be earneſt,
Which touch vs all too neere if God preuent not
Oh full of danger is the Duke of Gloceſter,
And the Queenes kindred haughtie and proude,
And were they to be rulde, and not rule,
This fickly land might ſolace as before.
2. Come, come, we feare the worſt, all ſhall be well,
3. When clouds appeare, wiſe men put on their clokes.
When greate leaues fall, the winter is at hand :
When the ſunne ſets who doth not looke for night?
Vntimely ſtormes make them expect a dearth :
All men be well : but if God ſort it ſo,
Tis more then we deſerue, or I expect,
1. Truly the ſoules of men are full of dread :
Yea cannot almoſt reaſon with a man
That lookes not heauy and full of feare.
3. Before the time of change, ſtill is it ſo:
By a deuine inſtinct mens mindes miſtruſt
Enſuing dangers as by proofe we ſee,
The waters ſwell before a boyſtrous ſtorme :
But leaue it all to God: whether away?
2. We are ſent for to the Iuſtice.
3. And ſo was I, ile beare you company. Exeunt

Enter Cardinals, Dutches of Yorke, Qu. young Yorke.

Car. Laſt night I heare they lay at Nothampton,
At ſtony-ſtrat-ford will they be to night,
To morrow or next day will they be heare.
Dut. I long with all my heart to ſee the Prince,
I hope he is much growne ſince laſt I ſaw him.
Qu. But I heere no they ſay my ſonne of Yorke
Hath ouertane him in growth.
Yor. I mother, but I would not haue it ſo.
Dut. Why my yong couſen it is good to grow.
Yor. Graham, on night as we did ſit at ſupper,
My vncle Riuers talkt how I did grow
More then my brother, I quoth my Vncle Glo.
Small earbs haue grace, great weeds grow a pace :
And ſince me thinks I would not grow ſo faſt,
Becauſe ſweete flowers, are ſlow, and weedes make haſt.
